Digital examinations

(45) Provided late access is practical and allowed (clause 39), a student may begin a digital examination at any time within the scheduled examination time, but they are not guaranteed to receive the full working time.

(46) If a student does not begin the digital examination and has not viewed the examination, the student may apply to defer the examination, which will be assessed per the 'Deferred Examinations' provisions.

(65) Students who experience demonstrable system and/or process issues beyond their control that prevent them from completing an examination may be eligible for:

- a. a re-sit of the same examination if the examiner determines that this will not give the student an unfair advantage
- b. a deferred examination if a re-sit is not possible.

(66) Unless an examination is automatically submitted when the examination duration has elapsed, an allowance of 15 minutes submission time will apply to all digital examinations with a duration of 60 minutes or more of working time that require a student to scan and upload their work. The allowance will be in addition to the examination working and, where specified, planning time.

(67) A student experiencing demonstrable system and/or process issues beyond their control that prevent them from submitting an examination on time, may:

- a. receive additional submission time during which they must not work on the examination
- b. request a late penalty exemption if (a) is not possible.

(68) Penalties for late submission will apply to the total mark available for an examination unless a student can demonstrate that system and/or process issues beyond their control resulted in the late submission of the examination. The following penalties will apply to the maximum possible marks allocated for the examination:

- a. less than 5 minutes: 5%
- b. from 5 minutes to less than 15 minutes: 20%
- c. more than 15 minutes: 100%.

- b. for second semester courses - December of the same year
- c. for summer semester courses - the following March.

(82) The Academic Registrar may vary the timing of deferred examinations for any or all courses, but not for an individual student.

(83) Deferred examinations must have the same conditions as the original scheduled examination, including format, duration, weighting, and assessment of the same learning outcomes at the same level of academic difficulty.

(84) A student who is unable to sit an original examination may be eligible for a deferred examination:

- a. for medical reasons (see 'Medical Reasons' provisions)

- b. there were unresolvable technical issues for a digital exam (see 'Digital Examinations' provisions).

(88) A student cannot defer an already deferred examination. A student who is unable to complete a deferred examination may:

For end of semester examinations only, apply for a rescheduled deferred examination where there are exceptional and unavoidable circumstances as defined in the Reasonable Adjustments for Students Procedure supported by documentary evidence, and where the circumstance does not affect the student's ability to sit the examination on campus on the day following the deferred examination. See clause 96 for application.

(89) Students who submit five or more requests for deferral of examinations within a twelve-month period will be contacted with advice on the services and support available within the University.

Application

(90) Students applying for a deferred examination must submit a request through mySI-net no later than five calendar days after the date the original examination was held.

(91) Except for the one-off discretionary deferred examination, requests for deferred examinations must be accompanied by supporting documentation corroborating the reason for the request as outlined in the Acceptable Evidence for Deferred Examinations table.

(92) If a student is requesting the discretionary deferred examination, they must indicate this in the request. Once approved, the discretionary option can be cancelled but only if it is cancelled prior to the original examination date and time.

(93) Statutory Declarations will only be accepted where there is no alternative formal documentation that can be obtained by the student.

(94) A scanned image or copy of supporting documentation is acceptable, however the original documentation must be retained by students for a period of six months and provided for verification upon request. Failure to produce the original documentation for verification, within the required timeframe, may result in the approval of the deferred examination being rescinded and a final grade awarded based on completed assessments.

(95) Students will be notified of the outcome of their request typically within five business days of submitting the request via mySI-net. If the request is approved, the student will be advised of the date, time, and venue of the deferred examination by:

- a. the school, for in-semester examinations

Illness during an examination

(100) Despite clause 86, the Deputy Director, Academic Services, or Head of School may approve a deferred examination for a student who has attempted all or part of the original examination, if they are satisfied there are exceptional circumstances (for example, an epileptic seizure during the examination).

(101) Consideration of these exceptional circumstances would require confirmation in a medical certificate no later than 24 hours after the date of the examination, and which addresses the following criteria in relation to the medical condition:

- a. suddenness of the onset of the condition
- b. seriousness of the symptoms
- c. impact on the student's ability to remain and complete the examination.

Extenuating circumstances

(102) If a request is made based on extenuating circumstances, a statement of reasons why the student was unable to sit the examination on the relevant day and all corroborative evidence must be submitted with the request.

(103) Extenuating circumstances could include, but are not limited to:

- a. a registered elite athlete engaging in a sporting or cultural commitment at state, national or international level per the Reasonable Adjustments for Students Procedure
- b. serious personal trauma.

(104) Except in the case of a discretionary deferred examination request, where the Deputy Director, Academic Services or Head of School is not satisfied that the student took reasonable measures to avoid the circumstance that contributed to the student missing the examination, a deferred examination will not be awarded. For example, the following are not grounds for the award of a deferred examination:

- a. misreading an examination timetable
- b. holiday arrangements, including overseas travel
- c. social and leisure events, including sporting and cultural commitments other than at state, national or international representative level.

(109) An appeal against the decision not to accept a student's late request for deferral of an examination must be lodged via Complaints and Appeals within ten business days of the date of the original examination.

(110) An appeal against the decision not to accept a student's late request for deferral of an examination must include:

(112) Sample end-of-semester papers can be submitted where there are sound reasons to do so:

- a. the sample paper must be submitted on request from the Examinations Section every three years or earlier following changes to the curriculum and associated assessment
- b. the sample paper must be similar to the original examination paper (for example, length, scope, rigour), so that students can be well prepared in terms of the examination requirements
- c. if a sample paper is not submitted, the original paper will be released to the Library.

(113) Per clauses 111 and 112, the Examinations Section will notify schools when papers are to be refreshed, and release to the Library a copy of the original or sample end-of-semester, written examination by the month listed below:

- a. for first semester examinations, September
- b. for second semester examinations, February
- c. for summer semester examinations, May.

(114) Where an examination is digital and the questions are drawn randomly from a pool, a sample paper containing the same number of questions as the original examination will be provided to the Library.

(115) The Assessment Sub-Committee will conduct an annual audit of a random selection of examination papers to ensure that the papers submitted per clauses 111 and 112 are reflective of the actual examination paper.

Student access

(116) For end-of-semester examinations, once grades have been finalised, all students, including those awarded supplementary assessment, will be given an opportunity to peruse, under supervision:

- a. the examination question paper and their own answers
- b. the marking criteria, such as the marking scheme or model answers.

(117) Students are not entitled to make copies of these documents.

(118) Despite clauses 116 and 117, Course Coordinators may release scanned examination papers and marking schema to students.

(119) Students must be given the opportunity to view their examination script within twenty calendar days of grade release and within the first two weeks of the following semester. For the purpose of these provisions, both Semester 2 and Summer Semester are followed by Semester 1.

Exemptions

(120) Where a sample examination question paper has been provided to the Library (clause 112), and the Course Coordinator also wishes to prohibit students from accessing their answers on the grounds that it is tantamount to providing access to the question paper, the Course Coordinator must make a special case through the Associate Dean (Academic) of the Faculty that administers the examination to the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic).

Right to information

(121) Access to an examination question paper or examination script may be sought under the Queensland Right to Information Act 2009 (RTI Act). Refer to the Access to and Amendment of UQ Documents Procedure for information on the application process.

(122) A case for non-disclosure based on educational grounds must be consistent with the prima facie case that would need to be argued under the RTI Act. However, considerations favouring disclosure, such as the desirability of providing students with feedback, will also be considered in determining whether an examination question paper should be disclosed under the RTI Act. Course Coordinators must take such factors into account when applying for exemption under this Procedure.
