

Student Survey Guideline

Section 1 - Purpose and Scope

(1) This Guideline supplements the Programs, Plans and Courses Quality Assurance Policy and supports the application of the Student Evaluation of Course and Teaching Procedure.

(2) This Guideline sets out the principles and requirements for surveys of students enrolled at the University of Queensland (UQ). UQ expects that surveys:

- a. are of an appropriate quality;
- b. adhere to appropriate ethical standards;
- c. do not duplicate data collection conducted through other channels;
- d. are disseminated and utilised appropriately;
- e. are released at a time that does not compromise students' attention to mandated survey; and
- f. do not make unreasonable demands on students' time.

(3) This Guideline provides information on student survey approval processes and explains the criteria used to evaluate survey approvals. It applies to all students, staff, and external stakeholders requesting to survey UQ students.

In-scope Surveys

(4) In-scope surveys include, but are not limited to:

- a. internal quality assurance surveys (e.g. surveys conducted for quality audit or strategic planning purposes, or by the University and its organisational units in respect of teaching, learning and the student experience);
- b. internal market research surveys (to students);
- c. internal surveys of student attitudes and opinions (e.g. satisfaction surveys and climate surveys to gauge student perceptions of their experience at the University);
- d. surveys conducted as part of cyclic review processes (e.g. Academic Program Reviews and School Reviews);
- e. surveys commissioned by Government departments or agencies, or other external individuals or organisations.

In-scope Student Recipient Groups

(5) In-scope student recipient groups include, but are not limited to:

- a. undergraduate and postgraduate coursework students;
- b. domestic and international students;
- c. student users of a UQ-delivered service or experience.

Out of Scope Surveys

(6) This Guideline does not apply to the following surveys:

- a. matters within the scope of the Ethics Committee;
- b. surveys to future students, graduates, and non-student stakeholders in the University's educational endeavour;
- c. surveys conducted by individual academic staff with only those students enrolled in their courses as part of course and teaching quality assurance and enhancement outlined in Assuring and Enhancing Course and Teaching Quality Guideline;
- d. surveys undertaken by academic staff for the purposes of academic research, that span fewer than 500 students;
- e. general calls for stakeholder opinions, with less than 500 students, that are made through faculty, school or student newsletters, social media (for example, a course Facebook site), organisational unit websites (Blackboard site), UQ Marketing and Communications data gathering, or general communications;
- f. professional/accreditation agency surveys and moderation.

Section 2 - Key Student Survey Principles

(7) Student surveys inform:

- a. mandated quality assurance processes and frameworks, including Programs, Plans and Courses Quality Assurance, Academic Program Reviews, and the School Reviews;
- b. product development, digital tool acquisition, and other activities designed to support and improve the student experience;
- c. improvement in the delivery of learning and student experiences for current and future students;
- d. quality assurance and benchmarking processes.

(8) Surveys may be required or requested by external agencies including the federal government, regulatory bodies, and professional accreditation agencies. They may be administered occasionally, cyclically, or annually.

(9) Student participation must be voluntary.

(10) All student surveys must comply with relevant university policies outlined in section 2 of the Student Evaluation of Course and Teaching Procedure.

Section 3 - Student Survey Approval

(11) All surveys within the scope of this Guideline must be approved by the Head of School, the Head of an Organisational unit, an Associate Dean (Academic) of a relevant faculty or the Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Education and Student Experience) before contacting and/or distributing to students.

(12) Once a survey is approved, the applicant or decision maker should check the Student Survey Calendar, before the distribution of the survey, to ensure there are no significant overlaps in survey distributions. The applicant or decision maker should then send the survey details (title, cohort surveyed and date of survey) to the Institute for Teaching and Learning Innovation (ITaLI), Student Surveys and Evaluations Team (SSET) (evaluations@uq.edu.au) to allow the student survey calendar to be updated.

(13) Applicants requesting to administer a student survey should provide the decision maker with details of the survey design, methodology, targeted cohort and timing. SSET is available to review and provide input on surveys should the applicant or decision maker require advice on survey design, methodology or possible timing.
