Part I - Electronic Voting

Election Website

(43) The Returning Officer will, where reasonably possible, make available to each person entitled to vote access to the Election website ('Website'). The Website will set out:

(48) Subject to Part A 'Eligibility to Vote in an Election', a person cannot vote more than once in an Election.

Part K - Observers and Scrutineers

Observers

(49) In order to ensure security and integrity of the Election in respect of electronic voting, the Returning Officer will appoint two persons, who are not less senior than the Returning Officer, as observers. Candidates are not permitted to nominate a person to be an observer.

(50) In the case of votes cast electronically, the role of an observer is to:

- a. be present when the results of the election are released; and
- b. confirm the results released are what has been generated by the electronic voting system.

(51) Where hard copy votes are cast in an election, the Returning Officer can appoint an observer to also be a scrutineer, who is not less senior than the Returning Officer. In this case, the role of the scrutineer is to:

- a. observe the counting of votes;
- b. (where relevant) observe the entry of votes into the Voting System; and
- c. confirm the outcome of the electronic election and comment on the legitimacy of the election process.

(52) Observers and Scrutineers must not disclose the results of an election before the Returning Officer declares the election results under Part M, 'The Returning Officer to Declare the Result of the Election' provisions.

Results

(53) The results of an Election are not invalidated because an observer or scrutineer failed or refused to carry out their duties under this Policy, or failed to maintain confidentiality in the Election process.

(54) The Returning Officer may appoint another person as an observer or scrutineer for the Election in the place of any observer or scrutineer who fails or refuses to carry out their duties in that Officer's sole discretion.

Part L - Counting of Votes

(55) Only valid votes will be included in the count. In the case of votes cast by use of the Voting System, voter validation will take place at the time of logging into the Voting System to cast a vote. Once a voter casts their vote and logs off the Voting System, the vote is deemed to be permanently cast and cannot be altered.

Only One Member to be Elected

(56) For Elections where one member is to be elected as a member of Senate or the Academic Board, votes are counted as follows:

- a. each vote is of equal value;
- b. if there are two candidates, the one with more first preference votes is elected;
- c. if there are more than two candidates, a further count assigning preference votes will be conducted, and if necessary repeated, until only two candidates remain.
- d. for subclause 56(c), a further count assigning preference votes is conducted by:
 - i. excluding the candidate with the fewest votes in the previous count, and reassigning the excluded candidate's preference votes as follows:
 - excluding votes on which there is not recorded a preference vote for a candidate who has not yet been excluded; and
 - assigning each preference vote recorded to the candidate who:
 - is next in the order of an elector's preference; and

- has not been excluded; and
- ii. counting the number of votes (first-preference votes for a candidate together with any preference votes assigned to the candidate) for each candidate who has not been excluded.
- e. if subclause 56(d)(i) cannot be applied because 2 or more candidates (1 of whom must be excluded) have the least number of votes and these candidates all have the same number of votes, these candidates are to be excluded and their preference votes assigned by:
 - i. excluding votes on which there is not recorded a preference vote for a candidate who has not yet been excluded; and
 - ii. assigning each preference vote recorded to the candidate who:
 - is next in the order of an elector's preference; and
 - has not been excluded; and
 - iii. counting the number of votes (first-preference votes for a candidate together with any preference votes assigned to the candidate) for each candidate who has not been excluded.
- f. The Returning Officer must repeat the process under subclauses 56(c), 56(d), 56(e) until only two candidates remain. The candidate with more votes (first preference votes together with any preference votes assigned to the candidate) is elected.
- g. If, after the counting of votes under subclause 56(f), no candidate has received the most number of votes (due to the candidates being excluded for receiving the same number of votes), the Returning Officer must conduct a re-election under Part O 'Holding a Re-election'.

More Than One Elected Member

(57) For Elections where more than one member is to be elected as a member of Senate or the Academic Board in a specific class, votes are counted as follows:

- a. Each vote is of equal value.
- b. If there are more candidates than the number of positions to be filled, a further count assigning preference votes must be conducted, and if necessary repeated, until the number of candidates remaining equals the number of positions to be filled.
- c. For subclause 57(b), a further count assigning preference votes is conducted by:
 - i. excluding the candidate with the fewest votes in a previous count and reassigning the excluded candidate's votes as follows:
 - excluding votes on which there is not recorded a preference vote for a candidate who has not yet been excluded; and
 - assigning each preference vote recorded to the candidate who:
 - is next in the order of an elector's preference; and
 - has not been excluded; and
 - ii. counting the number of votes (first-preference votes for a candidate together with any preference votes assigned to the candidate) for each candidate who has not been excluded.
- d. If subclause 57(c) cannot be applied because 2 or more candidates (1 of whom must be excluded) have the least number of votes and these candidates all have the same number of votes, these candidates are to be excluded and their preference votes assigned by:
 - i. excluding votes on which there is not recorded a preference vote for a candidate who has not been excluded for the count or a previous count; and
 - ii. assigning each preference vote recorded to the candidate who:
 - is next in the order of an elector's preference; and
 - has not been excluded; and

- iii. counting the number of votes (first-preference votes for a candidate together with any preference votes assigned to the candidate) for each candidate who has not been excluded.
- e. The Returning Officer must repeat the process under subclauses 57(c) and 57(d) until the number of candidates equals the number of positions to be filled. Each candidate remaining under this section is elected.
- f. If, after the counting of votes under subclause 57(e), the number of candidates is fewer than the number of positions to be filled (due to two of more candidates being eliminated for receiving the same number of votes), the Returning Officer must:
 - i. declare the remaining candidates with the most number of votes elected; and
 - ii. conduct a re-election under Part O 'Holding a Re-election' for the vacant position or positions.

Part M - Counting of Votes

Actions by the Returning Officer

(58) At the close of voting, a printed report of the total votes cast will be prepared by the Returning Officer.

(59) In the presence of the observers and scrutineers (if applicable), the Returning Officer will examine the reports of the votes cast and record the total number of votes cast for each candidate. The Returning Officer and the observers (and scrutineers, if applicable) will then sign and confirm that the reports are a true and correct record of the votes cast in the Election.
